Handwritten text in Burmese script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a cursive style and spans across the top section of the image. It appears to be a continuous narrative or record, possibly related to a royal decree or a historical event, given the formal nature of the script and the use of certain characters that might denote titles or specific administrative terms.

Handwritten text in Burmese script, continuing from the top section. This section also contains several lines of text, maintaining the same cursive style. There are some distinct markings or symbols interspersed within the text, which could be decorative elements or specific notations used in the original document. The overall appearance suggests a well-preserved but aged piece of historical writing.
